“I was able to gain insight on different resources around campus to help with my transition to the G. In class, we also talked a lot about character strengths and weaknesses, and I was able to start working on some of my weaknesses in order to begin the process of transforming into the best version of myself. I also enjoyed meeting people in class who were going through similar challenges because we were able to help each other out. We also got to experience things not every first year student was able to, and learn smart habits to utilize throughout my college years and even when I’m in my future career.”
